

ALEXANDRIA.

TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 6

POPULAR ELECTIONS have become so fraudulent in this country that an immediate reform in them is essentially necessary for the maintainance of the objects for which the government was instituted. As long as human nature remains as it is men will sell their votes, and as long as they continue to do so there will be men who will buy them, so that it is impossible to stop that sort of trade. But there are means at hand by which not only the trade referred to, but other fraudulent voting can be reduced to the smallest possible limits, and they are a repeal of the ballot system and a return to that of viva vece, and an annual registratration, when the voter shall be given a certificate, the presentation of which to the election judges at the polls shall be a prerequisite to the reception of his vote. These means are easy, and should be availed of at once. Let the Virginia legislature set the ball in motion at its next session.

AMONG OTHER things that have been determined by to day's election is whether the majority of the men of this country, but men who have had an opportunity of deriving such intel lectual advantages as are conferred by free Harrison and high tariff. So it goes. schools and chesp newspapers, are intelli gent enough to understand their own interests and to know on which side their bread is buttered. If they have elected Mr. Har rison the inference is plain that they do not, and that they would rather have a tariff that restricts the demand for American la bor and enables a few rich protected manufacturers to double the profits on their products, and that their own sons should have tree whisky, than one that would reduce the price of the necessaries of life, and at the same time increase the demand for American labor, and, necessarily, the wages thereof, by enlarging the market for the products of such labor.

Col. Dudley's alleged suits against cer tain newspapers for printing his instructions to the republican agents in Indiana to buy ' floaters'' (that is, purchaseable votes) in blocks of five, and keep them well in hand until their ballots were cast, will have the same fate as the one Mr. Blaine commenced four years ago against another newspaper for publishing a scandal, and the subsequent one of Mr. Vilas against a citizen of his city who accused him of embezz'ement, both of which, it will be remembered, were withdrawn by the plaintiffs. But criminal proceedings against Col. Dudley should be commenced and prosecuted vigorously, no matter how the election may go.

THE PREVAILING impression about the result of to-day's election is that it will be close. Figuring upon elections is always more definite when done after, than before the result has been announced; but, for all structed him to make an official denial of a that, many discerning men don't agree with report that his private estate had been inthe prevailing impression referred to, and are convinced that the contest will not only be pronounced, but decisive to the defeated party. However, as everybody will know the result to-morrow, it wou'd be foolish to waste words about it now.

No MATTER how to day's election may have gone, some store of comfort may be drawn from the fact that bad as it may be, it might have been worse, and also from the other facts, that the confusion and anxiety of the campaign have been settled, and that the people can now go about their usual business unbothered by politics-unquestionably the worst and most unprofitable of all sorts of tics.

THE PROHIBITION vote at the recent elections in Ocegon and Maine resolved itself into its original element, republicanism. If it shall have done so at the national election to day it has added no little to the rehave been better to have had that strength diminished than increased.

As To CHINESE PRISONS .- A writer in the Chinese Times says of Chinese prisons that is am-zing, and the wardens and others display surprising ingenuity in extracting mosleep is rendered almost impossible by the terrible noise which is kept up out side his window all night, and he speedily apologizes for his forgetfulness and makes good the oversight If the coolie who cleans out the cell is not satisfied be collects all the insects be can find, and introduces several hundreds into the apartment of his victim, who is then only too glad to call his services into requisition to get rid of them again, even at an exorbitant price. Many of the warders and servants are crimnals who have escaped capital punishment by the omission of the Emperor to mark their names for death when the list for theautumn executions is submitted to him. This list, which sets forth the name and condi-tion of the criminal and the circumstances of his crime, is divided into three parts. The first contains the new cases, the second those which were not marked the previous year, the third those which have escaped marking for two years. It is which have escaped marking for two years. It is said that the Emperor marks about eight names in ten, and that a man who escapes once is safe from sub-equent marking, although he has to go down to the execution ground the two following years. The list is brought from the palsee direct to the place of execution, and until its arrival neither criminals nor officials know who is to die, the unhappy victims only being sure of their fate upon hearing themselves called out to pay the last penalty. The primoners who have escaped are imprisoned for life, but they have a very easy existence, and as they are employed in the prison and share in the extortions practiced on other prisoners, they often amass considerable wealth.—London Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6, 1888. The sidewalks, streets, public buildings and hote's present a more deserted appearance to day even than yesterday, the only evidences of activity apparent being small crowds around the several bulletin boards, where the few dispatches that have so far been received concerning the election are posted. Both parties as usual claim the victory, but at two p. m., when this dispatch was written, there was no doubt that the democrats were jubilant, and the republi cans evidently depressed. The betting is altogether in favor of the democrats, indeed so much so that even bets cannot be obtained at all.
